In this workshop, Dr. Bahadini, an oncologist with City of Hope, will explore colorectal cancer prevention tips, signs & risk factors, genetics, nutrition, screening & diagnosis, treatment & side effects, clinical trials, and more.

Attendees will receive useful booklets about colorectal cancer in English/Spanish, and “Preparing for Your Doctor’s Visit” workbook.

ABOUT OUR PRESENTER

Bahareh Bahadini, M.D., brought her expertise in hematology and oncology to City of Hope in 2014 after more than a decade at North Valley Hematology/Oncology Group in Mission Hills, California. Dr. Bahadini’s training includes a residency at St. Mary Medical Center and a fellowship in hematology and oncology at City of Hope, including a year of research investigating genetic factors involved in breast cancer. She received her doctorate from the USC School of Medicine and received Master of Science degrees in both pathology and applied physiology at the University of Health Sciences/Chicago Medical School.
